2 Major Vote Count Errors Uncovered

Mistake Cuts Shelby Bond Issue Margin

The official count of votes cast in the Richland county election last Tuesday showed two major errors in bond issue and tax levy tabulations, but they were not large enough to change the election outcome, election board reported today.

Loss of 980 "for" votes on the $600,000 Shelby school bond issue and a gain of 564 favorable votes for the Mansfield school tax levy were the principal changes turned up by the official vote count.

The board of elections was to meet this afternoon to approve the official tabulation and certify it to the secretary of state.

'For' Votes Drop.

The official count of ballots cast on the Shelby school bond issue showed 2,283 persons voted in favor of it and 807 against it. The unofficial count was 3,263 for and 803 against. Needing a 65 per cent majority, the issue passed by a 73.88 per cent majority instead of the 80.25 per cent originally reported.

The Mansfield school levy, needing only a bare majority to pass, won approval with a vote of 9,764 to 3,426 instead of 9,200 to 3,304 as first reported.

Another result of the official count was a reduction of the total county vote from 24,248 to 23,844. Shelby's total vote was unchanged at 2,730 but the Mansfield total was reduced from 13,365 to 13,266 while the townships' total declined from 8,157 to 7,848.

Final official figures on all political races and special levies in the county and the vote gains or losses are:

Governor—Lausche 11,430, unchanged, Herbert 12,227, unchanged, Albaugh 143, up seven; Lieutenant governor—Nye 9,665, up five, Herbert 13,240, down 142, Kapitz 121, up two; secretary of state—Sweeney 9,313, up seven, Hummel 13,573, up one; state treasurer—Welsh 8,658, up six, Ebright 14,156, unchanged.

COUNCIL GETS TRAINING PLAN

City council tonight will consider legislation concerning military use of the Mansfield airport for training purposes, construction inspection of the Clear Fork dam and the city's 1947 taxes.

A measure granting the Eleventh Air Force landing rights at the port in connection with an air reserve training program will be introduced.

Another piece of legislation authorizing the hiring of a professional inspector to keep check on construction work of the $425,000 Clear Fork dam also will be considered.

Also up for a vote will be a resolution accepting the county budget's commission's 3.47 mills tax rate inside the 10-mill limitation and a four-tenths of a mill rate for outside the limitation. In 1946 the rate was 3.47 inside and eight-tenths outside.

FREEZING WEATHER POSSIBLE TONIGHT

Plunging temperatures today heralded possible freezing weather for Mansfield by tomorrow.

The weatherman said the low tomorrow morning would be from 30 to 35 degrees. Casting an eye at wintry, overcast skies, he said a few snowflakes might fall over parts of the state today.

The official forecast is clearing and colder tonight; Wednesday fair and cool.

The low at Hayesville this morning was 37, and the high yesterday, 56. Total rainfall for the 24-hour period ended at 8 a. m. today was .09 inch.

PRICES WON'T SHOW BIG GAIN, DEALERS SAY

Retailers Believe Buyers Will Balk, Prevent Marked Increases.

That good old American restrainer, competition, today gave assurance to Mansfield buyers that there won't be big price jumps immediately now that OPA regulations have been lifted.

That's the opinion of retailers, wholesalers, and manufacturers who were questioned today by The News-Journal. Some of them said it's still too early to predict what may happen to prices and supplies, but others said they don't believe buyers will let prices go out of sight.

Manufacturers said they can't afford to jeopardize their commercial standing by increasing the price on their backlog of orders.

Should the price of raw materials increase any appreciable amount of manufacturers may have to take a loss for a time or hope to make a suitable price adjustment, some of them said.

One representative manufacturer said his company felt that the worst thing that could happen would be sudden jumps in prices.

One furniture retailer who had the opportunity to talk recently with leading figures in a national retail merchants association said there wasn't any change expected in retail furniture prices.

One dealer in women's wear said he expected a "slight increase in a certain few items," but generally prices won't show much gain, he said.

An electrical appliance dealer said he looks for a 10 per cent increase in the goods he sells.

"We don't expect any noticeable change soon," said a lumber dealer.

MOVIE STRIKE UNREST FLARES

(By Associated Press)

New violence broke out in the long AFL jurisdictional dispute in the Hollywood movie studios today, following the first production shutdown in nearly two months and resumption of mass picketing and wholesale arrests.

In other labor disputes across the country, government mediators made efforts to settle two major strikes while in Washington Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug and John L. Lewis were to resume negotiations to avert a walkout next week by 400,000 soft coal miners.

Meanwhile, government mediators sought to bring peace in the 196-day strike at the Allis-Chalmers manufacturing plant at West Allis, Wis., and in the 23-day strike of 1,400 AFL Trans World Airline pilots.

In San Francisco, efforts to end the 42-day old Maritime strike in all Pacific coast ports were resumed at a conference of labor department, union and employer representatives.

After a strike of more than two months, the 525 members of the Los Angeles Herald-Express unit of the CIO American Newspaper Guild accepted management's offer of a 14 percent wage increase upon return to work. However, final settlement hinged on the outcome of disputes between management and two other groups, the CIO News Vendors and the AFL-Allied Printing Trades.

SOAP PRICES MAKE 50 PER CENT JUMP

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Prices for bar and packaged soap took an approximate 50 per cent rise today, officials for two of the nation's largest soap manufacturers announced.

Spokesmen for the Proctor & Gamble Co., and the M. Werk Co., who asked that their names be withheld, declared ingredient costs had risen as much as 100 per cent since the removal of price ceilings and labor costs had risen 50 per cent since soap prices last increased five years ago.

Both officials said the new higher prices "may attract some small additional amount of soap into consumer channels but the current soap shortage will not come to a quick end."

CHURCHILL SCORED

LONDON —(INS)— A Moscow radio commentator declared today that Winston Churchill's "friends in the United States are out to undermine team-work among the great powers by trying to practice atomic-power diplomacy."

INTERESTED SPECTATORS—Among the most interested of the spectators who braved the cold last night to watch the annual Armistice day parade were Sandra Lee Welty and Paul Shade Sandra Lee, two-year and ten-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Welty, 338½ Park avenue west, is shown (left) watching the parade from the arms of her grandfather, Raymond Welty, of 31 East Arch street. Her father is a veteran of the Pacific. 5,000 Brave Cold to See Armistice Day Parade

By ART ANDERSON

Paced by four school bands and the McVey post drum and bugle corps, a small band of veterans of both World wars marched again last night as they paraded before 5,000 spectators in observance of the 28th Armistice day anniversary.

Forming on Park avenue west, the paraders marched off with the boom of an aerial starting bomb fired from the roof of the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Led by Grand Marshal Walter E. Rusk, Vice Marshal M. A. Fulkerson and Marshal Al Conroy, the column moved about downtown streets colorfully lighted by Boy Scouts holding red flares.

Set Off Fire Works.

As the marchers swung around the corner of Park avenue west into North Main street VFW members Ralph Boyland and Clarence Hall touched off a fireworks display of two 24-foot square American flags.

The column marched along Park avenue west, north on North Main street, west on Fourth street and south on North Mulberry street to the corner of West Third street where it disbanded. Spectators, shivering in the cold, lined the route.

Displayed in the group of massed colors was the Robert P. Spreng Amvet post flag which arrived yesterday in time for the parade. It was carried by Amvet William Bechtler and will be presented formally to the Amvets by the McVey Post American Legion at the next meeting of the Amvets.

4 Bands Parade.

In addition to the American Legion drum and bugle corps, bands in the parade included the John Simpson junior high, Johnny Appleseed junior high, Senior high and the Madison high school bands.

BIGGER CHECKS FOR TEACHERS DUE JANUARY 15

Funds For Recreation Program Also Will Be Available Early in Year.

Mansfield school teachers and other school employes will draw their first increased pay checks Jan. 15 under the voter-approved three-mill school levy, Schools Supt. W. L. Miller said today.

Miller said that a meeting is to be held soon to determine whether the raises will be given on a flat or percentage basis.

The levy will permit schools to borrow money against the anticipated $190,000-a-year income to provide the increases by the Jan. 15 pay date, the superintendent said.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said about half of the levy funds should be collected by the end of March and the major portion by September of next year.

Meanwhile, the Mansfield Recreation commission is mapping plans to put to use funds from a two-tenths of a mill recreation levy also authorized by the voters Nov. 5.

Commission Chairman Floyd Dent said that two major tasks must be completed before the proposed organized recreation-program can be put into operation.

First will be re-organization of the city's recreation program and re-vamping of salary scales. The second is to hire a recreation director, Dent said.

Meet Next Week.

A meeting of the commission to discuss re-organization of the program on the basis of the levy funds will be held sometime this week, Dent said. City council approval then will be sought.

He said the National Recreation association in New York has been asked to recommend a director.

Auditor Wolfe said money from the recreation levy should be available for expenditure on the same time-table as that from the schools levy with about $5,000 of the estimated $12,000 being available by the end of March, 1947. Both levies are for five years.

GM HIKES CAR PRICES $100

DETROIT —(INS)— General Motors, one of the nation's automotive leaders, marked up price tags on passenger cars and light trucks one hundred dollars today.

Company President C. E. Wilson also told buyers that boosts may be expected on Frigidaire and Delco household appliances.

The GM president pointed out that the increase placed the company's prices "in reasonable relationship" to costs of production.

Used car buyers found prices boosted about 20 per cent. Louis J. Cohen, executive vice president of the Michigan used car dealers, said the increase will come immediately.

A survey of a Detroit used car market indicated that last week's black market prices were yesterday's open demands.

The Ford Motor company announced earlier that it will not raise prices. The Ford price tags were about $105 higher than Chevrolet before Wilson's announcement.

Retail price of the 1947 Crosley automobile was boosted $100 today. Powel Crosley, jr., company president, said the new price of $849 would be effective today because of increased costs.

Other automotive producers made no indication regarding possible price boosts.

Civic Music Audience Applauds Fleisher, 18-Year-Old Pianist, In Opening Concert

By NITA BRANSON

While Leon Fleisher, 18-year-old pianist who opened the Mansfield Civic Music series last night, gave a concert that approached genius from the standpoint of technique, there were many in the near-capacity audience who felt that his playing lacked an emotional depth which older pianists possess.

However, the audience at the John Simpson auditorium was enthusiastic about his performance, calling him back repeatedly for bows and for encores at the end of the program.

Fleisher, a San Francisco youth who was "discovered" by Pietre Monteux, conductor of the symphony orchestra in that city, displayed flawless technique. He has been hailed by many as a "young Rachmaninoff."

There was no doubt about his ability. And while his adagios were not as leisurely and softly muted as one might have wished or as the composer may have intended them, his allegros were vigorous and showy and perfectly performed.

The comment of Mrs. Margaret Hall, Mansfield pianist, that "he is more than brilliant," summed up his playing. When he has acquired the ability to interpret through his flexible and magical fingers the moods of the masters, then Fleisher may rank among the great pianists of his day.

He more nearly approached perfection last night in the Chopin "Etude in E major," than in any other work. His "Wanderer Fantasy," by Schubert, gave him a better chance to run the gamut of musical expression than any other. There's no question about Fleisher's amazing ability to play chords as if they were written for his expressive hands alone. They were tremendous.

Although he had chosen three Chopin numbers for his prepared program he further delighted the audience by playing two more of that master's compositions as encores. One was the ever popular and beloved "Polonnaise in A major" and the other the "Grand Valse Brilliant." His third encore was a "Canzonetta" by Liszt.

His substitution of two Debussy numbers for the composition by Busoni was a pleasing one to last night's capacity audience.

His two Debussy numbers, "The Submerged Cathedral" and a prelude, proved popular substitutions although they are not among the great French composers better known works.

The second concert in the Civic Music program will be presented Monday night, Dec. 2, by the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, directed by Eugene Goossens.

DISARMAMENT HOPES RAISED BY MOLOTOV

Foreign Minister Hints Reds Will Agree to Some Form of Arms Inspection.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Fresh evidence that Russia may eventually agree to some form of international inspection to enforce disarmament, including elimination of atomic weapons, was seen today in an assertion by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that Russian and American arms reduction proposals can be "harmonized."

At the same time he declared that an armaments race already has started, and he urged prompt action by the United Nations to stop it.

From Secretary of State Byrnes came a promise that the American government, which is insisting on an inspection system would have more to say on disarmament "at the proper time," and British Foreign Secretary Bevin declared that in the effort to obtain worldwide arms reduction "my government will not fall behind."

The three spoke last night at a dinner of the Foreign Press association after completing their first review here of five projected Axis satellite peace treaties. Reports on their work to date showed them to be still stalled on all major issues ranging from control of Trieste to free navigation on the Danube river.

U. S. Releases Boats.

One source of prolonged dispute between the United States and the Slav states appeared to have been removed, however. Diplomats reported Byrnes had informed the foreign ministers council yesterday that the United States had ordered occupation authorities in Germany to release several hundred seized Danube river vessels of Hungary and other eastern European countries — something those countries, with Russian support, have been demanding for months.

Today the foreign ministers turned over to their deputies and technical experts some of the disputes which have knotted their own discussions and themselves prepared to return late this afternoon to an attack on major differences in the Italian treaty.

Foam Blowers Can Again Knock Top Off Their 'Suds'

CHICAGO —(INS)— Beer drinkers were heartened today by word from the brewing industry that the United States now has a surplus of beer for the first time since 1942.

They also were encouraged by the report that all restrictions on the use of grain for beer probably will be removed Dec. 1.

Authority for the surplus statement was William T. Maybury, president of the National Beer Wholesalers' association, now meeting in Chicago.

Maybury said the surplus was due to a seasonal decline in consumption.

Clinton Hester, Washington, D. C., counsel of the U. S. Brewers' Foundation, predicted the end of restrictions on the use of grain.

Both Hester and Maybury indicated that beer prices would be held to current levels despite the end of price controls.

FRENCH RAIL CRASH KILLS 30, HURTS 70

BAR LE DUC, France—(U.P.)—Thirty persons were killed and at least 70 were injured today when an eastbound freight train smashed into the rear of a passenger local at the Revigny Sur Ornain station, about ten miles northeast of Bar Le Duc.

Revigny Sur Ornain is situated on the Strasbourg-Paris railway, approximately halfway between the two cities. The passenger train was at a standstill in the station when the accident occurred.

LONG STRIKE ENDS

NEW PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Tuscarawas county's longest industrial strike in many years neared an end today with announcement that 260 employes of the Remont Stamping and Enameling company would return to work tomorrow. The strike started July 16.

Closed Shop Faces Fight In Congress

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The closed shop—one of the sorest of all union problems—is headed for a showdown in congress and the U. S. Supreme Court.

Senator Joseph Ball, Minnesota Republican, says he will try to get the new, Republican-controlled congress to pass a law outlawing the closed shop.

And the voters of five states—Florida, Arkansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Arizona—have now approved amendments to their state constitutions doing just that.

If congress passes such a law the unions certainly will fight it through the courts, going up to the U. S. Supreme Court, if necessary.

* * *

UNION BEGIN FIGHT AGAINST STATE LAWS

The unions already have started their fight against the state amendments and will go on up to the supreme court if they have to.

A closed shop is one in which every employe must be a member of the union which has a contract with the employer there. If he isn't, he can't work there.

Closed shops are not new in this country. They date back at least to 1790 when unions of carpenters and tailors bargained with their employers not only for higher wages but for closed shops, too.

Congress itself— in the National Labor Relations act (the Wagner act) which it passed in 1935—said an employer could make a closed shop agreement with a union.

The voters of Florida and Akransas—on Nov. 7, 1944—and the voters of Nebraska, South Dakota, and Arizona—on Nov. 5, 1946—approved the amendments to their state constitutions forbidding closed shops.

Soon after the Florida amendment was approved, the AFL and CIO went to bat against it. They took it to the federal district court in Florida. That court upheld it. Then they appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court which rejected the case as being a state issue.

SOLDIER'S BODY BEING RETURNED

The body of Pfc. Harry M. Baker, Mansfield's first Gold Star hero to be returned from overseas by the government, is scheduled to arrive in the city late tomorrow from the west coast.

The 30-year-old husband of Mrs. Catherine F. Baker, 550 Dewey avenue, died Aug. 5 on Okinawa as a result of a vehicle accident. Plans for funeral services and burial will be completed after arrival of the body at the Wappner funeral home.

Pfc. Baker entered the service March 15, 1945, and re-enlisted for overseas service in October, 1945. He had been stationed on Okinawa two months before his death.

A native of Buffalo, O., Pfc. Baker came to Mansfield in 1935. He was a former Westinghouse employe.

Besides his widow, he leaves a son, Harry Merlin Baker, jr.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Baker of New Concord; five brothers, Warren, Roy and Edward of Mansfield, Robert of Shelby, and Carl of Akron; and four sisters, Mrs. Willis Turnbaugh of Cambridge, Mrs. George Batchik of Akron, Mrs. Dale Lewis of Bellville and Mrs. Donald Eckenrode of Mansfield. One son and a brother preceded him in death.

Pfc. Baker was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Battles Still Rage In China Civil War

NANKING — (INS) — Reports reaching Nanking indicated today that battles are raging along old fighting fronts in China's civil war despite the Nationalist government's latest cease firing order.

Communist spokesmen also scorned the government's latest peace gesture postponing the national assembly meeting, claiming the three-day delay had solved none of the problems.

BOILER BLAST KILLS 3

TUCSON, Ariz. — (U.P.) — Two trainmen were killed and three others were in serious condition today from the explosion of a boiler on a freight train locomotive near here.

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER RAILS, POWER

British Monarch Gives Views of Labor Regime as Second Parliament Opens.

LONDON — (AP) — King George VI, in a parliament-opening speech presenting the views of his Labor government, called today for legislation continuing conscription for the British armed forces and for nationalization of inland transport and electric utilities.

The monarch presented his message to parliament after a traditional ride through London's streets during which he was guarded against any possible attack by Jewish extremists by every policeman Scotland Yard could spare—more than 5,000 all told.

The king's speech marked the opening of the second parliament since labor took over the reins of government and took place amid pre-war pomp and ceremony of centuries-old tradition — and the reality of the most elaborate and stringent precautions since the 1939 and 1940 bombings attributed to the Irish Republican army.

The royal message, prepared by the labor government, set forth government views on both foreign and domestic afafirs.

* * *

Comments on Peace.

The king urged negotiation of a peace with Germany under "conditions which will foster true democracy, will guarantee the world against further attempts at world domination and will remove the financial burden which occupation has laid on my people."

Indicating the government's intent work for eradication of international trade barriers, the king spoke of his "earnest hope" for the success of negotiations now under way in London for expansion of world commerce and employment.

He also announced the government's desire to improve living conditions in Britain, promising increased housing and increased food supplies to a nation weary of shortages and rationing.

* * *

Plans New Ministry.

Also recommended were measures to establish a ministry of defense—combining the three fighting services of air, sea and land—and to make effective the 1944 Chicago convention on international civil aviation.

The king's brief message was simply a matter-of-fact presentation of the labor government's legislative intentions for the second parliament since it climbed to power 15 months ago.

In one short paragraph, the king indicated that the government had plans to set up tighter controls for the London Stock Exchange and not to permit return of the free cotton market closed during the war.

To encourage development of an efficient agricultural industry in Britain, the king said proposals would be laid before parliament to provide a "system of guaranteed prices and assured markets for the principal farm products."

* * *

Profound Changes.

Three proposals due to have a profound effect on Britain's economic life were dealt with in fewer than 100 words:

"A measure will be laid before you," the monarch said, "to bring the inland transport services under national ownership and control; and you will be asked to approve proposals to deal with compensation and betterment in relation to town and country planning and otherwise to improve the machinery of planning.

"A bill will also be submitted to you to bring into national ownership the electricity supply industry as a further part of the concerted plan for coordination of the fuel and power industries."

The king, wearing the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, spoke for 13 minutes from the throne in the house of lords to a joint session of both houses attended by other members of royalty and a large section of the diplomatic corps.

Much of the medieval ornamentation of a full state opening was absent but it still was a brilliant spectacle despite the grim watchfulness of the police, acting on anonymous threats that Jewish underground organizations in Palestine intended to carry their violent efforts to Britain itself.

HAPPY, BUT DUMB

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—For nearly six years Fred Jones, automobile dealer, worked to obtain a radio station. Finally came the day of dedication for KFMJ and there were greetings on the air from Tulsa civic, business and political leaders, but none from Jones. He awoke to discover he'd lost his voice and could manage only a husky whisper all day.

WAITE SWEEPS INTO GRIDIRON LEAD

Latin Slips To Second; Lima, Third

By JOHN BARRINGTON

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Toledo Waite, riding a popularity crest engendered by its smashing victory over the Massillon Tigers, was the duly elected leader of the state schoolboy football pack today.

Ohio sports writers, rallying behind Jack Mollenkopf's once-de[illegible] first place in the weekly International poll as a reward for its 40-6 smashing of the Tigers.

Cleveland Cathedral Latin was forced out of the top spot for the first time in eight weeks, winding up in second place although it added to its long record with a 69 to 0 walloping of Cleveland Central.

The scribal ukase apparently was influenced by the fact that Latin, unbeaten in its last 33 straight games, defeated the same Massillon Tigers only 14 to 7.

Massillon, rated third close behind Latin and Waite last week, plummeted to tenth spot but managed to hold the bottom position on the "big ten" ladder despite the challenge of several other teams, including Mansfield.

1. Toledo Waite (8-1-0).
2. Cleveland Cathedral Latin (8-0-1).
3. Lima Central (9-0-0).
4. Canton McKinley (7-1-1).
5. Toledo Libbey (8-0-1).
6. Youngstown Woodrow Wilson (9-0-0).
7. Steubenville Central Catholic (8-0-1)
8. Cincinnati Purcell (9-0-0).
9. Campbell Memorial (8-1-0).
10. Massillon (5-3-1).

Succeeding the Tigers in third place was Lima Central, up one notch oover last week. Seraph Pope's team defeated Fremont, 14-0, for its ninth in a row, but it was a costly victory. Park Blubaugh, half of Central's brilliant backfield team, suffered a fractured ankle.

Central plays its traditional intra-city rivalry with Lima South this week with its hopes pinned on fleet Bill Sharp, who has 14 touchdowns and 20 extra points so far

Canton McKinley also climbed one spot, taking over fourth on the strength of a 47 to 0 slaughter of Toledo Scott. It was the seventh win for McKinley, beaten by Cleveland Lincoln and tied by Steubenville's Big Red.

As an indirect result of Waite's prosperity, Toledo Libbey jumped three positions in the writers' estimation. Crashing the select circle in eighth place last week, Libbey wound up fifth this time.

Libbey's advancement was due in part to its 8-6 defeat of Waite a few weeks ago. Convictions that the win was a fluke have kept Libbey down, but an undefeated record plus that Waite conquest were too much to ignore forever. Libbey also silenced critics who pointed to an early season tie on its record; a return game with the same Woodward team Friday brought an easy 40-13 verdict.

Youngstown Woodrow Wilson marked time in sixth place as it won its city championship with a 13 to 0 edge over East. Also standing pat was seventh place Steubenville Central Catholic. The Crusaders blasted East Liverpool, 47-0.

Cincinnati Purcell, another newcomer last week, hurtled Campbell Memorial to claim the No. 8 spot. Purcell's 21-0 rout of Cincinnati Elder was its 28th game without a loss.

Memorial rebounded from a defeat last week to trip Struthers, 19 to 0 The Campbellites thereby remained ninth.

Cleveland Lincoln, Mansfield, Akron Garfield and Columbus Upper Arlington all showed strength in the voting but couldn't match Massillon for tenth place.

Wildcats, Dukes Renew Rivalry

NEW LONDON—New London's Wildcats will be the underdogs against their oldest rival, Wellington high school, when the two pigskin aggregations collide on the Wellington gridiron, Friday night.

This rivalry, started back in the early 1920's has seen Wellington roll up a score of 97 to 0, and New London come back with a 75 to 2 victory.

The Dukes of Wellington have gone undefeated, but once tied in eight grid fracas this season while the 'Cats have found the road rocky, winning only three games on their nine contest schedule

Whippets Win NO Grid Loop

SHELBY — The Shelby Whippets, Northern Ohio league grid champions for the first time since the circuit was organized two years ago, will be feted by the Bing furniture store in Shelby on Friday, Nov. 22, at the Shelby Inn at 7 p. m.

In addition, a public ceremony is being planned for the champions when presentation of letters and gold footballs will be made. The arrangements have not been completed as yet for the public recognition program for Coach Al Fendrick's Whippets, who are the first Shelby team to win an undisputed league championship since 1932.

The Whippets shared the old North Central Ohio league title with Galion in 1938 and Marion Harding and Bucyrus in 1940, but never have won a clean cut title since Coach Paul Curry's charges took the undisputed NSO championship in 1932.

Fendrick, former Mansfield Madison high school coach and Johnny Appleseed Boy Scout area field executive, took over the coaching job this fall after Larry Swackhamer resigned to accept an assistant's role on the staff. Besides assisting with the coaching, Swackhamer has served as a scout for the champions. Other members of the coaching staff include Bill Wilkins, who also serves as a scout: Joe Yohn and Charles Williams. It is the first year that the school had used six coaches.

Although not faring so well outside the league, the Whippets succeeded in winning six out of seven conference games this fall with the only mar coming from a 0 to 0 tie with Upper Sandusky, 1945 league champion.

In non-league games, Shelby lost to New Philadelphia and Ashland.

NOTES FROM BIG NINE GRID TRAINING CAMPS

CHICAGO—(AP)—Notes from the Big Nine football camps:

Northwestern—Coach Lynn Waldorf waived the usual Monday respite from practice yesterday and stressed passing as the Wildcats began preparations at full strength for their game with Notre Dame Saturday.

Michigan—Coach Fritz Crisler scheduled a heavy scrimmage session today with emphasis on blocking and tackling as he drilled his Wolverines for Wisconsin.

Wisconsin—Don Kindt, Clarence Esser, Dick Loepfe and Dale Bowers were off the cripple list today. . . . Tackle Don Lee and Guard Don Knauff, who have missed the last two games, also are expected to be fit for Saturday's 20th encounter in the Michigan series.

Ohio State—Jerry Krall, the Buckeyes' speedy halfback, may miss the Illinois test with a twisted knee suffered in Ohio State's 20-13 win over Pitt. . . . Tommy Phillips, one of Ohio's most widely publicized prep players before the war, may get his chance at stardom by moving up to Krall's role.

Iowa—The Hawkeyes, drilling on passing and defense, got ready to end their season Saturday against Minnesota. . . . They haven't beaten the Gophers at Minneapolis since 1921.

Minnesota—The Gophers were given a day of rest yesterday but got down to serious rehearsals today to protect a record of never having been beaten by Iowa in Memorial stadium.

Purdue—A back injury by Left Halfback Kenneth Smock in the Minnesota game has revealed a fracture of a vertebrae sidelining him for the season. . . . The injury-riddled Boilermakers who close the season against Indiana in Lafayette Nov. 23 following an open date this week-end were granted two days' layoff from drills.

Indiana—Coming out of the Northwestern game without serious injury, Indiana was given yesterday off before resuming practices for the Old Oaken Bucket battle with Purdue. . . . The Hoosiers also will be idle Saturday.

Army Continues to Lead College Grid Poll With Irish In Second

NEW YORK—(AP)—Army and Notre Dame fought to a scoreless tie in their historic grid battle here last Saturday but when the votes were counted today in the weekly poll of the Associated Press to pick the nation's ten top teams the Cadets wound up in first place by a very narrow margin.

Among the 144 writers who participated in the poll, including the sports editor of the Stars and Stripes in Germany, 57 of them cast first place ballots for Army and 31 decided that Notre Dame should be on top.

Thirty-six of them had as much trouble reaching a decision as the teams themselves had on the field. These 36 voted for a first-place tie between the two.

On the basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, and so on, the Cadets came up with a total of 1,300½ points against 1,266½ for Notre Dame.

Georgia's all-victorious Bulldogs, who downed Florida, 33-14, for their seventh triumph of the season, retained the third position in the standings with 12 first-place votes and a total of 1,061½ points

The seven remaining first-place votes went to the University of California at Los Angeles, which kept its record clean with a 14-0 victory over Oregon and held on to fourth place with 961½ points

Pennsylvania jumped from ninth to fifth place. Texas clung to sixth, while Georgia Tech moved into seventh, Tennessee dropped from seventh to eighth, Illinois moved from tenth to ninth and Michigan landed in the tenth spot

Ohio State was third in the second ten.

It's Up to Bernie Whether He Stays

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—If head football Coach Bernie Bierman leaves the University of Minnesota, it will be under his own power, according to Frank McCormick, university athletic director.

McCormick denied reports that Bierman would be replaced as coach of the hapless Gophers before the start of the 1947 season.

Bierman's Minnesota team won its first Westeren conference game when it beat Purdue Saturday. He has been under fire, and frequent reports had him leaving the Gophers to coach a professional team.

No Comment, Says Army on Bowl Bid

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(U.P.)—U. S. military academy officials, admitting they had heard reports that army's football team will be invited to the forthcoming Rose Bowl, said today that "no bid has been received and consequently, no action taken."

They would not comment on what action would be taken should the invitation materialize. Army was the leading candidate in rumors concerning the Rose Bowl last year, but did not make the trip It never officially was revealed if Army had been asked, and the bid went to Alabama when the southern school told the Rose Bowl that the Sugar Bowl also was making an invitation.

ROSE BOWL PATTERN UP TO COAST LOOP

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(UP)—The future pattern of Rose Bowl competition was in the hands of the Pacific Coast conference today after the Western conference's official vote in favor of a five-year agreement for play in the Pasadena New Year's day game was cast.

The Western conference passed the Rose Bowl proposal by a 7-to-2 vote. Northwestern was the last school to vote and its ballot was cast yesterday in favor of the game. The only negative votes were from Illinois and Minnesota.

Professor Frank E Richart of Illinois, chairman of the Big Nine's faculty committee, is expected to release an official announcement on the passage within the next day or two.

An official letter outlining the Western conference's stand and the terms of its Rose Bowl proposal was reported en route to the chairman of the Pacific Coast conference's faculty committee. Upon receipt by the coast officials, a joint announcement is expected.

The next step in the negotiations then will be a meeting of the faculty groups of the two collegiate circuits

Commissioner Kenneth L. Wilson of the Big Nine outlined this step two weeks ago and said it was designed to accelerate acceptance of the agreement so that the relations could be started with the forthcoming New Year's day game.

Throughout the Big Nine's two months balloting on the Rose Bowl issue, the coast conference has maintained a "say nothing policy" A Big Nine spokesman emphasized they had "no definite commitment" that the proposal would be accepted. However, others expressed the belief the Western conference would never have proceeded with the formal vote if not assured in advance of coast acceptance.

The Big Nine's formal action came simultaneously with a flurry of Rose Bowl rumors which had either the Army or the University of Georgia having the "inside track" for the post season bid.

Rockets Next For Brown 11

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The Cleveland Browns returned home today where they hope to make their league title official

The Browns will attempt to mark up their second in a row over Chicago's Rockets at the Cleveland stadium Sunday and a season sweep over the Buffalo Bisons the following Sunday.

If the Browns can take both games, the Western division race of the All-America pro football conference probably will be all over.

The Browns' closest rivals, San Francisco's 49ers, who now are two games behind the Cleveland squad, will face the tough Los Angeles Dons and the Eastern division leaders, the New York Yankees, in two of their final games.

A loss by the 49ers in either game combined with a Cleveland victory would cinch the Browns' championship.

Coach Paul Brown will present the same lineup against the Rockets that he started against the 49ers Sunday, providing Marion Motley and Bill Lund have recovered from injuries by then.

Cleveland Barons Prepare For Battle With Hornets

Cleveland's Barons rested today in preparation for their battle tomorrow night with the Hornets at Pittsburgh.

Norm Burns, of New Haven, now holds the league lead in scoring with 22 tallies. Four goals within a week, however, raised Baron center Johnny Holota within five points of Burns. Johnny is second in total goals, with 10.

A-BOMB CAUSES BRITISH REVISION OF DEFENSE PLAN

Now Place Emphasis on Bases as Far Away as Africa and Australia.

WASHINGTON—(INS)— Responsible sources revealed today that the development of the atomic bomb has caused Great Britain to revise completely her defensive strategy by putting emphasis on bases as far away as Africa and Australia.

The decision to revise defensive strategy was reached as early as May, 1945, when it became known to leading British military men that the A-bomb would change all military thinking.

At that time leading British military men met at Camberley and immediately sensed the importance of the new military development. They reached several astounding conclusions in blueprinting the defense of the empire.

They decided that in another war the British Isles themselves might become untenable. Previously other commentators have expressed the opinion that the Isles are especially vulnerable. A dozen well placed a-bombs might destroy the war potential of the United Kingdom overnight, they argued.

In such an event, it was said, Britain would have to be abandoned.

Canada, too, in view of the Arctic approaches to her territory, also might have to be written off and her defenses integrated with those of the United States rather than Britain.

It was noted in this connection that Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King recently conferred briefly with President Truman on a visit to Washington.

Instead of depending on the British Isles themselves and on Canada, it was reported, the imperial general staff agreed:

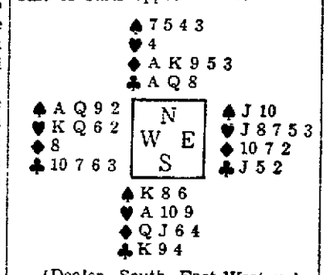
1. To depend on British possessions in Africa as defense bases. A strategic road would be cut across the African continent to develop this area. The Empire air training program would be entirely centered on Salisbury in Rhodesia.

2. Australia would be used as a proving ground for atomic energy research. A great city for such work might be built in the midst of the great arid area which forms much of the Australian land mass. A road was cut through here during the war to move supplies for the allied offensive against Japan.

Those familiar with these reports assert that they also may explain many points of British foreign policy, such as letting the United States carry the ball in many delicate diplomatic situations.

Barclay On Bridge

Blank suits and even singletons are strongly taboo for the bidder of No Trumps—that is, the player who first makes such a bid for his side. He announces to his partner protection of some kind in every suit, with at least three cards in it if it not potentially stopped. But over across the table, shortness in a suit is not the same kind of liability. In fact, it is usually an asset then, as existence of shortage in one suit is what makes possible length in another—and the first No Trump caller usually likes to find a long suit or suits opposite him.



(Dealer South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
5 ♦

That bid of 4-Diamonds by North was very bad indeed. He made it because of two factors—his shortage in hearts made him fear that suit, and too much of his strength was in diamonds, together with too much weakness in the majors. If he had understood bidding better, he would have realized that South's call of No Trumps took full responsibility for stopping the side suits, and that the diamond A-K made it virtually sure the suit would produce five tricks at No Trumps. His correct action was to pass and let South play for a nine-trick game contract instead of chancing an 11-trick game. With a hand about a trick-plus stronger, his bid would have been all right as edging toward a slam.

In the 5-Diamonds, South got set a trick, following the heart K lead, as he had no way to avoid losing three tricks in spades. At 3-No Trumps, South could have walked home with five tricks in diamonds, three in clubs and one in hearts, plus an extra if West led a spade.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

THE PROOF

Both Reddy Fox and Mrs Reddy were living high. At no other time in all the year did they have such a variety of choice food and so much of it as now, when the fields and woods were filled with gunners. It was the season when for a short time the law no longer protects the Grouse and Pheasants and Bob Whites and Ducks and certain other feathered folk and some who wear fur. It was what is called the "open season," when Men with guns tramp over the Green Meadows and through the Green Forest and in the name of sport leave behind them death and suffering and dreadful fright.

This year there were more of these hunters than ever before and fewer of the game they sought. When two or more hunters met they were sure to talk about the scarcity of birds and the reason for it. Two of them had caught a glimpse of Reddy Fox running for the Old Pasture with a Pheasant in his mouth.

"There goes one cause of so few Pheasants and other birds," said one bitterly. "There are two Foxes and Hawks and Owls. If it were not for them there would be plenty of birds for us to shoot. That fellow had a full-grown cock Pheasant that either you or I should have."

The other nodded agreement. "Yesterday I found where a Fox had eaten a Grouse. The day before I found the feathers and a wing of a Bob White. A friend of mine found where a Duck had been caught at the edge of the Big River. What good is a Fox, anyway? We'll never have good shooting again until we get rid of them, and Hawks and Owls with them. If we don't get rid of them there soon will be no birds to shoot. Those feathers I found and what we saw just now are proof enough of what had become of the Grouse and Pheasants."

"Right," growled the other.

Just then a Pheasant rose in the air off to one side. Bang, bang, went the gun of one of the hunters. The beautiful bird with the long tail flew a little way then dropped. The two hunters hurried forward and began hunting for him. Had they had a Dog to help them his nose might hae led them to the fallen bird. But they had no Dog, and though they looked and looked it was in vain. They did their best, but it was useless.

"He was hard hit," said one.

"Yes, but not hard enough. He can run and hide," replied the other wryly.

Faithfully they looked, but a few feathers was all they found. At last they gave up. "It was too long a shot, but was the first I have had today and very likely the only one I will have, so I took it," said the shooter. "There was a time when a fellow might have a dozen shots in a day, but now he is lucky to get one."

The other nodded. "The reason is plain enough. That Fox we saw and the feathers I found are proof of what has become of the birds. We have to believe what we see," said he.

The trouble was that they hadn't seen enough. They had seen Reddy with a bird in his mouth, but they hadn't seen him catch it. The truth is he hadn't caught it. He had found it already dead. It had been shot and had fallen, able to run and successfully hide, but too badly hurt to recover.

The same thing, or something similar, had happened to the Grouse, the Bob White and the Duck whose feathers had been found. It was true that they had been eaten by Foxes, but it was only because they had been found killed or helpless. Those hunters were honest in their opinions. They believed what they said. But they didn't know all the facts, the whole truth. A half truth often is worse than no truth at all. The real truth was that there were too many hunters of all kinds, in fur and feathers and with guns.

How Danny Meadow Mouse and his cousins would have loved to have heard those hunters say that all foxes, hawks and owls should be killed, and how they would have approved!

THE PROOF

Both Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy were living high. At no other time in all the year did they have such a variety of choice food and so much of it as now, when the fields and woods were filled with gunners. It was the season when for a short time the law no longer protects the Grouse and Pheasants and Bob Whites and Ducks and certain other feathered folk and some who wear fur. It was what is called the "open season," when Men with guns tramp over the Green Meadows and through the Green Forest and in the name of sport leave behind them death and suffering and dreadful fright.

This year there were more of these hunters than ever before and fewer of the game they sought. When two or more hunters met they were sure to talk about the scarcity of birds and the reason for it. Two of them had caught a glimpse of Reddy Fox running for the Old Pasture with a Pheasant in his mouth.

"There goes one cause of so few Pheasants and other birds," said one bitterly. "There are two Foxes and Hawks and Owls. If it were not for them there would be plenty of birds for us to shoot. That fellow had a full-grown cock Pheasant that either you or I should have."

The other nodded agreement. "Yesterday I found where a Fox had eaten a Grouse. The day before I found the feathers and a wing of a Bob White. A friend of mine found where a Duck had been caught at the edge of the Big River. What good is a Fox, anyway? We'll never have good shooting again until we get rid of them, and Hawks and Owls with them. If we don't get rid of them there soon will be no birds to shoot. Those feathers I found and what we saw just now are proof enough of what had become of the Grouse and Pheasants."

"Right," growled the other.

Just then a Pheasant rose in the air off to one side. Bang, bang, went the gun of one of the hunters. The beautiful bird with the long tail flew a little way then dropped. The two hunters hurried forward and began hunting for him. Had they had a Dog to help them his nose might hae led them to the fallen bird. But they had no Dog, and though they looked and looked it was in vain. They did their best, but it was useless.

"He was hard hit," said one.

"Yes, but not hard enough. He can run and hide," replied the other wryly.

Faithfully they looked, but a few feathers was all they found. At last they gave up. "It was too long a shot, but was the first I have had today and very likely the only one I will have, so I took it," said the shooter. "There was a time when a fellow might have a dozen shots in a day, but now he is lucky to get one."

The other nodded. "The reason is plain enough. That Fox we saw and the feathers I found are proof of what has become of the birds. We have to believe what we see," said he.

The trouble was that they hadn't seen enough. They had seen Reddy with a bird in his mouth, but they hadn't seen him catch it. The truth is he hadn't caught it. He had found it already dead. It had been shot and had fallen, able to run and successfully hide, but so badly hurt to recover.

The same thing, or something similar, had happened to the Grouse, the Bob White and the Duck whose feathers had been found. It was true that they had been eaten by Foxes, but it was only because they had been found killed or helpless. Those hunters were honest in their opinions. They believed what they said. But they didn't know all the facts, the whole truth. A half truth often is worse than no truth at all. The real truth was that there were too many hunters of all kinds, in fur and feathers and with guns.

How Danny Meadow Mouse and his cousins would have loved to have heard those hunters say that all foxes, hawks and owls should be killed, and how they would have approved!

PROFIT TAKING HINDERS RALLY

NEW YORK —(INS)— An early advance in stock prices was partially eliminated in the second hour today when the bulge attracted profit taking.

Though a few pivotals managed to hold gains of a point or more, other groups were irregular with rails independently weak.

First hour turnover approximated 430,000 shares.

Steels and motors were among the stronger groups. Chrysler and General Motors climbed about two points each before meeting resistance. Gains of more than a point appeared in U. S. Steel and Bethlehem. Coppers probed higher levels. Losses in rails were mostly fractional. Farm equipments, mining shares, and rubber issues quieted after a strong opening.

Curb shares and bond improved.

GOP Economy Drive to Hit Army, Navy

Winchell — On Broadway

Notes of a Newspaperman.

SOME OF THE CHUMPS who get paid for dulling up financial pages have denied one of our items. We could fill a book with examples of space-wasters who denied our firsts—that were confirmed . . . The exciting new book, "Southern Exposure," contains this: "It was not until April of 1944 that Walter Winchell—ever on the alert to expose disruptionists — revealed that the Klan was going deeper underground—hiding behind the name 'American Keystone Foundation' and other aliases. I asked Colescott (the Klan leader at that time) about this, and on May 4th he replied: 'As usual when speaking about the Klan, Mr. Winchell is wrong. The Klan has not disbanded and has no intention of doing so'."

A month later (according to "Southern Exposure") Winchell was "proven to be right as usual. In a copyrighted story by Fred Moon in the Atlanta Journal it was revealed that the Klan's imperial offices were empty and that Colescott had sold his Atlanta home and 'retired' to Miami. Colescott explained that a klanvocation (of April 23) had voted unanimously to suspend the constitutional laws of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and to order the disbandment of all provisional klans. Colescott made it clear, however, that the Klan is dead."

The new book goes on to offer evidence proving that the Klan continued operating under aliases

The N. Y. Times foreign newsboy, Harold Callender, comes up with an incredible slice of irony that is another illustration of the topsy-turvy state of the world: DeGaulle is now backed by the same elements in France that had once backed Petain! . . . Behind the Scenes: The producers of comedies always seat loud laughers next to critics at first-nights. But we doubt if this maneuver hoodwinks any aisle-squatters . . . The GOP has been revived. It has come back from the same grave the Democrats dug for themselves.

Ben Grauer's fluff gave this reporter the giggles on the last broadcast. There have been many amusing fluffs on the radio. One of our favorite tang tonguelers concerns the announcer who wanted to say, "Do you want a civil service job?"—which came out: "Do you want a chivil jervis sob?" . . . Frances Perkins' nifty description of FDR: "He was the rich man's friend and the poor man's brother."

London's Yorkshire Post tells about the hammy playwright who sent a pair of ducats for the opening of his new revue to Winston Churchill. "One of these tickets," he wrote, "is for you, and the other for a friend, if you have one."

Churchill replied: "I am very sorry I will be unable to attend on the first night, but I will be present on the second, if there is one!"

Critic John Mason Brown's literary lace: "Praise has never made anyone unhappy. We like it even when we do not believe it. We tire of it only when it is bestowed too long on other people. It is a music we do not object to have played off-stage. Although it may shame our consciences and insult our minds, it does no damage to our ears. So long as we remember that it sings the song not of what we are but of what we wish we were, it probably does not hurt us."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—Harrison Smith, a speaker at a book show had something to say about the effect of big incomes on young writers. He thought the effect was not good.

At first, I was going to agree with him. Then I was going to disagree. But, I find that I do and I don't.

In collaboration with the late George Fife, of the Old Evening World, I did not a mere biography but an autobiography of Babe Ruth back in 1922. After I had chased the Babe all over the western wheel with the Yankee club and had nailed him for only fifteen minutes one Sunday morning after mass in Chicago for the only personal touch we had to go on, George and I sat in his apartment with Spalding guides and records and the envelopes out of the morgue and did 80,000 words in three days.

Long afterward, I was talking with George Creel about the difficulty of ghosting autobiographies and George recalled that, back in 1915 he went way out to Kansas to interview Jess Willard for his life story and asked him what he had called a dog that he had had when he was a little boy. Jess said "Rover," and that was about all George got, too. They just couldn't give.

* * *

THE PROFIT MOTIVE and wealth didn't hurt Dickens' delivery: Shakespeare got so rich that he retired and I have heard that when Tennyson was under contract for a guinea a word and wrote "Break, Break, Break on thy cold, Grey Stones, Oh, sea!" the publisher wanted to use ditto marks and dock him two grs.

Max Perkins said Dumas had a kind of story-factory with a lot of assistants to do the hack work and just put in the hot licks and purties himself, like some comic strip artists who get so lazy after they pass $25,000 a year that they buy their bristol-board already ruled in squares and just sketch the drawings from script done by scenario men and turn them over to ink-monkeys for finishing

I have been hedging away from the argument here because it seems to be such a yes and no proposition. In his cub days, Paul Gallico used to sit in a cell in his basement in Larchmont and beat out fiction for cheap magazines when he could have been dead tired, or helling around on bath-tub gin but not because he was poor. He was very well off but he was a wolf for recognition and success and enjoyed spending the fiction money, which was velvet over his salary as a sport writer, for luxurious dresses and fur coats for Mrs. G. I don't recall how good or bad his early fiction was but I am not second-guessing when I tell you I knew he would get there.

Unquestionably, authoring is a trade now and unquestionably this is a gold rush if not, in the artistic sense, a golden age of letters. Notwithstanding inflation, taxes and all we who sell words in arrangement on paper have been working the great mother lode for more than 20 years. Don't wake me up; let me dream.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

THE TROUBLE with Senator Fulbright's suggestion that President Truman resign is, as many have already pointed out, that it would enable Mr. Truman to bypass primaries, nominating conventions, elections, and to appoint the next president of the United States. No Republican could afford to accept the presidency on those terms. Nor is there any chance that the senate would confirm the appointment of Mr. Truman's nominee.

But this does not dispose of the problem to which Senator Fulbright was addressing himself. The problem remains, and if Senator Fulbright has given the wrong answer, he has, nevertheless, asked the right question Two very serious defects in our political system have, through no particular fault of Mr. Truman, been sharply revealed.

For more than two years the action of government will be subject to the constant danger of stalemate and destructive conflict. Moreover, in case Mr. Truman were unable to finish his term, his successors would be, first Secretary of State Byrnes and then Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, neither of whom has ever been nominated for president.

That Byrnes has the qualifications of a good president is, I believe, true. But he would have no mandate from the people or even his party At best he would, therefore, be a caretaker until a president could be elected.

* * *

THE TWO problems, that of the succession and that of the midterm stalemate, both arise, I submit, from the same difficulty—that we are accustomed to the idea that a presidential election can be held only once in every four years. Both problems would be settled if it were deemed possible to hold intermediate elections for president and vice-president without waiting until the four-year term ended.

It is possible to do that if the people, speaking through congress, desire it. No amendment of the Constitution is necessary, only an act of congress.

It is quite plain that the authors of the Constitution thought there should be elections a few months after the offices of president and vice-president had become vacant. It is quite plain, also, that they thought the president might not only die, or become disabled, or be removed by impeachment, but that he might resign And whenever any of these things happened, if there was no vice-president, they expected the country to have new elections—if possible within the same calendar year

All this is set down in an act which originated in the First Congress, was passed by the Second Congress on Feb. 21, 1792, and approved by President Washington on March 1, 1792. This was the law of the land for 94 years, until 1886, when congress replaced it by the Presidential Succession Act which is now in force. Congress could, of course, re-enact, with appropriate alterations to conform with the Twentieth (Norris) Amendment, and with other suitable changes, the law of 1792.

* * *

THIS LAW, and the debates which preceded it, were the work of the men who wrote the Constitution and founded the government They reveal certain basic principles which today may at first seem novel, and even startling

One is that the founding fathers thought it quite likely that occasionally a president would resign.

Thus as the men of the First and Second Congresses and the first president saw it, as the country saw it for 94 years afterwards, Mr. Truman could, if it were advisable, resign some time in the near future, and a new president could be elected in 1947 instead of waiting for 1948

The act of 1792 gives no support to those who now think that a president who decided to resign would be a quitter and coward. George Washington, who was not a quitter or a coward, approved the act which tells how a president may resign.

Section 11 says that "the only evidence * * * of a resignation * * * of the office of president shall be an instrument in writing declaring the same, and subscribed to by the person * * * resigning * * * and delivered into the office of the secretary of state."

TRUMAN CO-OP PLEA PLEASING TO M'GREGOR

Congressman Warns President Opposition in Sight to Old Program.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor, R., of 17th district today termed "very fine" President Truman's plea for cooperation between congress and the executive.

However, McGregor made it plain that he felt the people spoke in no uncertain terms at the polls on Nov. 5 and that any evidence that the president is listening to his old advisers or pursuing his old program surely will meet with prompt and aggressive opposition.

The congressman, who was contacted by the News-Journal in Coshocton this morning, reported that he was in Washington yesterday when the president's call for cooperation between the Democratic administration and Republican congress was announced.

Joe Martin, R-Mass), slated to become the new speaker of house of representatives returned a prompt "yes" to the White House, McGregor said.

"Like the president, I too, feel that there should not be any change in our foreign policy and that such domestic problems as labor and production should be put above personal and party differences," the congressman said.

Should the president present the 80th Congress with plans similar to those with which he greeted the 79th Congress, he will run into the same opposition, McGregor predicted.

Thus did the Republican congressman from the 17th district, like others all over the nation respond to the president's plea, that "I shall co-operate in every proper manner with members of the Congress, and my hope and prayer is that this spirit of co-operation will be reciprocated."

Won't Accept PAC.

From Senators William F. Knowland (Calif.) and C. Wayland Brooks (Ill.) came assertions that their fellow Republicans will not accept what Knowland called a "PAC-drafted" law-making program and what Brooks labelled "completely socialistic proposals."

"We need some of the same unity of purpose that has marked the development of our non-partisan foreign policy in solving the country's grave domestic problems," Knowland told a reporter.

"We don't want the nation to swing either too far to the left or too far to the right."

Taft Sees More GOP Aid.

In Cincinnati, the Associated Press reported, Sen Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) predicted that President Truman because of his "apparent change" in position, would get more cooperation from a Republican congress than he got from outgoing Democrats.

In a statement to newsmen, Taft said:

"The Republican majority in the new congress is fully aware of its responsibility to present a constructive legislative program in accordance with the wishes of the electorate, as indicated last week

"If the president accepts the verdict of the electorate he will have few difficulties with the congress. The reason for the controversies during the past two years is that the president's proposals always followed the line of increased executive powers."

Turning to Right.

Without dissent, Republican leaders pledged their efforts toward continuing present foreign policies unchanged.

Many Democrats thought Mr. Truman's statement indicated he is turning away from the course "a little left to center" he previously had marked out for himself and would mollify some of the elements in his own party, as well as the Republicans, with fewer New Deal type proposals.

Sex Offender May Get Test

Steve Sayko, 27, of Lakewood, who has been granted a parole from the Mansfield reformatory after serving five years of two sentences for sex offenses, may be ordered to the Lima State hospital for the criminal insane for observation by the state pardon and parole commission.

Reformatory officials said today Sayko may be sent to the hospital for a 30-day observation period before the commission makes the parole effective, but added that the case was "in the hands" of the commission.

The United Press quoted E. E. Everett, Lima, a member of the commission, as stating that the commission had voted to have Sayko transferred to the Lima hospital.

Mead Retains Post With State Group

W. C. Mead, Mansfield, was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children at its 27th annual meeting yesterday in Columbus.

Roy L. Hartzell of Youngstown was chosen president of the organization. Charles N. Sutton of Attica was among nine directors elected for three-year terms.

VIEW ART EXHIBIT—Hundreds of persons have viewed the show of paintings and drawings by pupils of John Bernat at the Bernat studios at 26½ South Main street. Shown here is a part of the crowd which visited the studios during a private showing Sunday evening. The exhibition was opened to the public last night and will be open today and tomorrow from 7 to 10 p. m. More than 200 works of 32 Mansfield area artists are being exhibited.

DRIVER'S WILD RIDE COSTS HIM $160, JAIL TERM

That wild, post-game auto ride of Thomas J. Clements' last week added up to $310 in fines and 120 days in the county jail.

Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler, however, suspended $150 of the fines on condition that Clements pays for damages to two cars and 90 days of the jail sentences on condition that he stays on the right side of the law.

Clements, 26, of 567 Lily street, was booked on four counts Friday night following the Mansfield-Youngstown football game. He was charged with driving while intoxicated, failing to stop after an accident, assault and battery and disorderly conduct.

He is now serving 30 days in the county jail on the assault and battery charge, filed when he allegedly beat up a city jail cellmate.

Battled Police.

On the disorderly conduct charge, filed by officers who said he battled them when he was arrested, Clements was fined $10 and costs.

If he pays for damage to a car owned by Walter M. Hammermiller, Mansfield, R. D. 2, and a Service Cab company taxi, owned by William Marzetti, his fines will total only $160 and costs.

Failure to pay the damages will mean additional fines totaling $150; failure to stay on the law's side will mean an additional 90 days in the county jail, Judge Schettler said.

Charged with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, Carl R. Sweeney, 22, and Frank B. Kinney, 20, today pleaded guilty in municipal court and were held to the grand jury on $1,500 bond each.

The two, who gave their addresses as 103 Elm street, were charged with stealing a car owned by Morris Browarsky, 544 Arlington avenue. The car was wrecked at Wooster where the pair were apprehended.

John Weaver, jr., 161 West Sixth street, and Earnest Tacket, 74 East Sixth street, were fined $10 and costs on fighting charges while James Beckett, 63½ South Main street, was fined $10 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge.

Stephen R. Cockran, 70 Park avenue east, charged with failing to display an auto license plate, was fined $10 and costs.

METAL PRICES RISE

NEW YORK—(INS)—A general advance in metal prices took place today in the wake of the ending of price controls. The Kennecott Copper corporation, leading United States producer, increased the price of domestic copper to 17½ cents a pound, effective immediately.

Four Performances Planned Of Children's Musical Play

Edwin Strawbridge, who presents the musical play, "Daniel Boone" before Mansfield school children Wednesday and Thursday, has transformed classical ballet from the concert stages to "the little red school house," where he uses his dance ability to teach everything from early literature to American history.

Brought here under the auspices of the Mansfield PTA council, Strawbridge will give four performances. He will appear at John Simpson junior high school at 10 a. m. and again at 2 p. m. on Wednesday and at the same hours on Thursday at Johnny Appleseed junior high.

Part of Strawbridge's success in entertaining children is due to the fact that he takes an historial theme, sugar coats it with drama, music and dancing and makes it a fascinating performance for juveniles.

Adding to the interest of the "Daniel Boone" presentation are the costumes which Strawbridge has taken from early American sketches and are authentic reproductions of that period, and the music of Margaret Carlisle, modern American composer, who has provided delightful orchestration and interpretative scores for the play.

EDWIN STRAWBRIDGE . . . as 'Daniel Boone'

Committees for the presentation have been under the supervision of Mrs. Paul Stahl, president of the PTA council. These have included E. W. Kissel and George Taylor, tickets; Charles A. Divelbiss, ways and means. Officers of the council, besides Mrs. Stahl, are Mrs. E. G Pankow, treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Rupert, recording secretary, and G. W. Harmony, corresponding secretary. These officers and mothers of the council have assisted in the planning of the performance.

CHANGES PLEA, SENT TO PEN

In a surprise move in common pleas court today, Atty. John L. Catlett pleaded 20-year-old Lewis Murton, OSR inmate, accused of second degree murder, guilty to a charge of manslaughter and the youth was immediately sentenced to one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary.

Murton was accused of murder in the fatal stabbing of Janvere Bruck, 18, in an OSR supper lineup last July 18. His accomplice, Howard Nichols, 20, a fellow prisoner, was recently convicted of second degree murder in the stabbing. Murton changed his mind at the last minute and offered to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Prosecutor Theodore Lutz accepted the offer, he said, because evidence had shown that Lewis' knife had struck Bruck's belt buckle and failed to cut the victim, making it difficult to prove him guilty of murder. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch accepted the manslaughter plea and passed sentence.

The 20 veniremen called to hear the case were dismissed.

Mansfielder Hurt In Traffic Mishap

George Liles, 32, of 124 Park avenue west, was treated at General hospital last night for lacerations of the forehead and ears after he was struck by a taxicab at 11:15 p. m., on East Fourth street near Willis avenue.

The operator of the taxicab, George J. Elkins, 23, of 336 Fifth street, told police Liles stepped into the street from behind a parked automobile. Elkins was not held by police.

CITY COMPLETES STREET PROGRAM

Mansfield's 1946 street paving and resurfacing program has been completed with the paving of four streets, one of them a major traffic artery, and the re-surfacing of six others, City Engineer W. C. Statler said today.

Paving jobs finished include Cline and Sloane avenues, Ohio street and Marlow road. Re-surfacing jobs were on sections of Huffman and Third avenues and Harker, East Fourth and North Adams streets. The latter three were re-surfaced on a city-state financing basis.

Statler said that no plans have yet been mapped for additional paving or re-surfacing work in 1947.

INSURANCE OFFICIAL TO SPEAK TOMORROW

D. Miley Phipps, of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, Cleveland, will speak on "The Small Business Man and His Life Insurance" at a meeting of the Mansfield-Ashland Life Underwriters association tomorrow.

The meeting will be held at the Main Street lunch, 111 North Main street, at 5:30 p. m. Hollis J. Quinlan, 178 Westwood avenue, local representative of the New England Mutual, will introduce Phipps.

Reports Electric Goods Missing

Police today were investigating a report filed by A. R. Dinger, 195 East First street, concerning a $35 electric motor and a $15 electric fan which Dinger said he left for repairs at a now-closed East First street electric shop.

Dinger said he took the equipment to the shop in July and returned periodically to check on the repair progress. He told police yesterday that the shop had been closed and all equipment moved out. Dinger said he knew where to locate the former proprietor of the shop.

GALION BOY HIT BY CAR

GALION—Ronald Wise, 9, running between two parked cars Saturday, was struck by an automobile driven by Samuel H. Alkire, route 1, Galion, according to police. The lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Wise, sustained a fractured leg. City hospital, where he was taken, report he is "improving."

Up and Down The Street

SUCCESS REPORTED—

C. I. Kimmel, Richland county game protector, has just returned from a game warden's holiday—a deer hunting expedition up north to Glendale, Ontario. Kimmel reported success—a nine-point buck. There was lots of excitement on the trip, including a search for a lost hunter. Mansfielders Ed Bullock and Clarence Reeder were also up that way, Kimmel said.

RECOGNIZED—

A Mansfield girl, Peggy Jean Anderson, has been named to the college board of a popular magazine for young women on the basis of an article written for a recent issue of the publication. Miss Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Anderson 395 Park avenue west, is a senior at Bethany college, Bethany, W. Va., where she is majoring in biology preparatory to studying medicine. The article, "The GI Girl Returns to College," was considered by the editorial staff of the magazine as an outstanding one. Her appointment to the board followed their acceptance.

CONTRASTS—

November woods may be "brown and sere," but Mansfielders who drove through the countryside yesterday found the deep green of winter wheat and the dark of wind swept trees, a pleasing contrast. Adding to the eye-pleasing scene were the fields of cornshocks, made famous in verse by Riley.

Board To Hear Annexation Bid

A public hearing on Mansfield's petition to county commissioners for permission to annex the area north of Longview avenue between the Erie railroad tracks and Newman street will be held in the commissioners' office at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The proposition has been pending since June 4 when city council passed an ordinance giving the city lawmakers' permission for the action. The area to be annexed, if it wins the commissioners' approval, is bounded on the north by an alley north of Jefferson avenue.

THREE BILLION BUDGET SLASH SEEN FOR '47

Sponsors of Tax Reduction Call Present Military Machine Outmoded.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Economy-minded Republicans figured today it will be necessary to make sharp cuts in appropriations for the armed forces to carry out their promises of lower taxes and a balanced budget.

The extent of the cut won't be determined until January, when President Truman submits his budget for the fiscal year 1947-48. But there is no doubt in the minds of Republican fiscal authorities that the Army and Navy will bear the brunt of the economy drive.

There has been some talk of cutting as much as $3,000,000,000 (B) from the armed forces budget if it approaches the $14,000,000,000 (B) spending figure set for the current fiscal year.

Rep. Harold Knutson, R., Minn., who is slated to head the tax-writing house ways and means committee, declined to say specifically where economies would have to be made to deliver on his promised 20 per cent cut in individual incomes taxes.

Knutson said he would first have to consult his colleagues. However he observed that it should be obvious to anyone that cuts would have to be made where spending was heaviest. In plain language this meant the army and navy.

The view of many Republicans is that a cut in the military budget would not impair this country's national defense.

War Science Changing.

They point out that the science of warfare has advanced so rapidly that a military machine patterned after that of World War II is already outmoded. Therefore, they feel it would be better to have a small army and navy for a while, rely on the atom bomb for defense, and spend more money on research.

Economies also are going to be made elsewhere, especially among war-born and New Deal agencies. Republicans also intend to keep a close watch on how efficiently public funds are spent.

Sen. Style Bridges, R., N. H, who will head the senate appropriations committee in the new congress, pledged a thorough examination of the president's budget to "provide an accurate picture of our real needs as opposed to the ambitions of bureau chiefs and department executives."

"There must be rationing of money to spend," he said. "There must be ceilings on public payrolls. There must be priorities on new and costly projects."

The Republican fiscal program is already in process of formulation. It will be discussed at a series of GOP meetings between now and when the 80th congress convenes in January.

The Republicans at the moment are thinking only of reducing individual income taxes for the calendar year 1947 and thereafter. Corporate taxes will be reviewed later in the year but chances are that any reductions in that field would not become effective before the fiscal year 1948, beginning next June.

Jaycees Near Member Goal

With two days remaining in the Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce membership drive, the Jaycees are only nine members short of the goal of 210, President John H. Finefrock, jr., announced today.

The drive, which opened last Wednesday night, so far has recruited 52 members, and Finefrock said he was certain the goal would be reached. The campaign ends tomorrow night at a stag party at the Sky club.

Leaders in the drive are Richard W. Nixon, who has obtained 17 new members; John Swank, nine members, and Richard Sattler, Marion Southward and John Graf, each with three members.

The Jaycees were organied here last May with 31 charter members.

Theft of Three Bicycles Reported

Three bicycles were stolen in Mansfield yesterday, police reported, and one was recovered a few hours after it was listed as missing.

A bicycle owned by Richard Hahn, 274 Rowland avenue, was found on Park avenue west a few hours after Hahn told police it was stolen on North Main street.

William Eberhardt, 149 North Weldon avenue, told police a bicycle valued at $30 was stolen about 8:30 last night on South Main street, and a Springmill street youth reported his bicycle, which he valued at $35, was stolen from his home at 345 Springmill street.

Only Veterans Fight That Way,' Says New York Cabbie

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—It was 2 a.m., at the crossroads of night-life in Greenwich village.

A tall young man, his clothing ragged, stood swaying drunkenly in the middle of the sidewalk. A short stocky man bumped against him in passing.

"Tryin' to start somp'n," said the tall man and swung his fist into the short one's face.

And with no more words they clinched savagely and in silence. Their fists thudded against chins, and then they were both down on the sidewalk, tearing and kicking each other.

Neither went for the face then. They tried for the groin with knuckles, knees and feet, swirling over and over in tangled fury. There was no sound but grunts and the impact of flesh against flesh. They were both young men, well-matched in strength and agility.

A crowd gathered slowly and watched impartially. No one thought at first of interfering: New York people don't like to stick their nose in other people's quarrels.

Finally a woman began to scream:

"Stop them somebody. They're hitting below the belt."

The men in the crowd shuffled their feet and looked around, each waiting for his neighbor to do something. There was no policeman in sight. One man started forward hesitantly but his wife grabbed him and yelled in terror: "Abe! Abe! Don't get mixed up in it!"

She pulled him back. Everybody looked again at the two panting men on the sidewalk. A taxi drew up and stopped. The cabby watched the fight philosophically.

"Veterans," he said. "Both of them. I can tell the veterans every time."

The tall man was slowly beginning to tire. Liquor had dulled and slowed him. The short man methodically worked him into position. He brought his knee up hard once, twice, three times. A look of agony came over the face of the tall man. He lay contorted and pain-paralyzed.

The short man warily straddled him. He took the helpless tall man's head between his hands and leisurely pounded it against the sidewalk. It sounded like coconuts falling off a peddler's wagon.

When the tall man went limp, the short one turned the head sideways and deliberately rubbed it back and forth on the concrete until one side was a red pulp.

No one in the crowd protested. Some women turned their eyes away for a second, but looked again.

The short man, winded but satisfied, rose slowly to tired feet. His beaten foe came to and wobbled upright. Shredded skin hung from his bloody face.

"C'mon, I'll buy you a drink," he mumbled to the short man. They headed for a bar, walking slowly on legs shaky with fatigue. The crowd began to ebb away.

"They both hit below the belt," said the indignant lady.

"I knew they was veterans," said the cabby, admiringly. "Nobody but veterans fight like that."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1946

It is written in economic law that the higher the price, the fewer the sales and the smaller the profits, but a lot of people don't believe it.

Oddity of the moment is that Ohio now has two Senators Taft—but it is Robert A., rather than Kingsley, of whom you are likely to hear more.

Somebody says "opportunity is knocking at the White House door"—which would at least be a change from the sort of knocking that has been going on for quite awhile.

President Truman's 'Simple Formula'

PLACED in the uncomfortable position of being required to meet a difficult situation as gracefully as possible, President Truman yesterday announced an executive policy which appears to have been given much thought by Democratic leaders.

Mr. Truman's "simple formula," as he states it, is "to do in all cases, from day to day, without regard to narrow political considerations, what seems to me to be the best for the welfare of all our people" . . .

Than which no more could be asked of any man.

The trouble starts, however, with the implication of the wording, "what seems to me"—which personalizes the matter of judgment to a far greater extent than appears justified by the outcome of last week's elections.

Unfortunate as Mr. Truman's position may be, it cannot be escaped that his views of what "seems to be best for the welfare of all our people" are held in small esteem by majorities of citizens who voted in northern states last Tuesday.

Responsibility, it would appear, had best be placed on congress to chart the national domestic course during the next two years—with co-operation on the part of the president—rather than that he should seek to continue to direct the course, and ask co-operation of congress in carrying through his policies . . . which have thus far failed to bring any semblance of order out of post-war chaos in domestic affairs.

In the field of foreign relations, safety can lie only in adoption and maintenance of a "national policy," freed from even slight appearance of partisan bias, and the extent to which Democratic and Republican leaders of thought have worked in harmony during the early stages of United Nations procedure evidences such intent.

One excerpt from President Truman's statement of policy merits thought, as difficulties of the moment are pondered: "We are set upon a hard course. To follow the course with honor to ourselves and with benefit to our country, we must look beyond and above ourselves and our party interests for the true bearing" . . . and if that could be done, even for a brief spell, what a wonderful country this might become within the next decade!

Marshall Field's Mistaken Notion

MARSHALL FIELD has finally abandoned his costly experiment of attempting to publish a daily newspaper without carrying any advertising in it. It is his New York PM, in which he has already sunk several million dollars, that is now to depart from his original intent to bar all advertising.

It appears to have been Mr. Field's idea that advertisers might, in some way, influence the independent policy he had set up for PM, but he now explains more realistically: "In the light of PM's established character, I cannot help feeling that there is more potential danger to PM's independence in the fact that its existence so largely depends on whether one man desires to support it than could possibly arise from accepting the support of the advertisers of the community. . . . Its permanence can only be assured if it is self-supporting."

The idea held by some people that advertisers, because of their patronage, can influence either newspaper policies, or the handling of news, is not new—and there may be isolated cases in which there is justification for such belief—but not in the broad field of newspaper publication as a whole . . . and nothing is more likely to be resented by a conscientious publisher than an approach designed to "keep out," or color, a legitimate news story of public interest.

The purpose of newspaper advertising, as now very generally recognized, is to make use of this widely distributed medium to carry interesting and informative merchandising messages to readers, a large percentage of whom depend upon their newspaper to bring them this information.

Financial support necessary to profitable production of a modern daily newspaper requires income from advertisers as well as from subscribers, and there is no record of a newspaper being able to survive long without such a combination of revenue. And, as Mr. Field now admits, the permanence of a newspaper "can only be assured if it is self-supporting."

Comment by the Akron Beacon Journal on PM's policy change is enlightening: "PM's self-vaunted liberalism stemmed not from its independence of advertisers but because Mr. Field saw fit to publish that kind of a paper. If he had happened to hold other views, PM could have been a completely reactionary sheet."

Shrinking Tips Disturb Recipients

IT IS STILL true that "they also serve who only stand and wait," but a lot of waiters in this country are said to be worried lately. There are rumors of growing rebellion on the part of the spending public, on account of rising prices or fear of the same, and "coming events cast their shadows before."

An expert in such matters reports that when a "blue plate special" goes up another nickel, the waitress is destined to lose a dime. And when a bellhop's intake falls below $12 a day, he "can't make a decent living."

It is just as well, though, not to be too sure about such matters, even if barbers' tips did start sliding down, as reported, when the dollar hair-cut arrived. Maybe the talk that prices are starting to fall in any field is still too good to be true.

It now appears that the New Yorker who embezzled $750,000 "didn't seem like a fellow who would do such a thing"—which somehow has a familiar sound.

The Kansas City Star suggests as an unbeatable 1948 slogan: "More whisky in whisky and more money in money."

Now is the time for all good nations to be less quick on the trigger.

DANIEL DID ALL RIGHT, REMEMBER?

GOP Congress May Be First Step Toward More Stable Economics

By RAYMOND MOLEY

SINCE the election of a Republican congress marks the substantial end of a political era, it is a good time to appraise the consequences in economic, as well as in political affairs.

The committees of the senate and house, with their enormous power over economic life, will have Republican chairmen and Republican majorities.

In the main, the chairman will come from that part of the country which stretches from Nebraska to Maine. As far as can be determined now, they will be men of moderately conservative views.

This probably means a policy of financial retrenchment. It also means that the power of organized labor over legislation will be materially curtailed.

If the past is any indication of the future, we shall move into an era of more stability in our economic life. What happens at certain recurrent intervals in political history is that, due to the expansion of the country or the rise of new technological processes or the growth of certain economic groups, a struggle for power on sectional or group lines overturns the normal economic balance.

This struggle goes on until a new balance is achieved, and then what may be called a reign of law prevails. This does not mean law in the technical sense, but in the broader sense of rough agreement on conditions and relationships; under which sections and groups deal with one another.

The era of the New Deal was marked by a big increase in the power of labor. It was also marked by the increase of the political and economic power of cities over rural areas. Legislation for a number of years favored labor and other groups whom President Roosevelt called the "underprivileged." It was inevitable that resistance to the gains of these groups would finally bring things to a relative impasse.

It is probable that labor leaders—with evidence now before them of a less sympathetic congress, with a considerable body of "gains" already achieved and with the revelation of the weakness of the PAC in this election—will find it harder to promote strikes.

For it is clear that a great number of union members joined the protest vote. There will, of course, be plenty of tall talk by leaders. That is what their position seems to require. But the force of their demands will be limited by the attitude of their followers and by their loss of support in congress.

A regime which seems to be approaching the end always presents a picture. The administration the next two years will be limited by congress and constantly plagued by the threat of doom of the next presidential election.

It will be increasingly difficult for the president to draw first-rate men to public office. In periods like 1919-20 and 1931-32, people for the most part accepted appointments in Washington as temporary leave-of-absence affairs. Now, nearly everyone in Washington is trying to find employment elsewhere. The net result is stagnation and paralysis. No programs are developed, and little initiative is left in the executive.

All this may well be succeeded by the birth of healthy and stable conditions. Ultimately, after immediate uncertainties are passed, new productivity, prosperity and stability may be expected.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Nov. 12, 1926.

Joseph (Uncle Joe) Cannon, veteran statesman, died at his home in Danville, Ill., at the age of 90.

It was announced that seventy miles of Richland county highways had been improved in 1926.

Sixty-one births were reported to Mansfield health department in October—38 boys and 23 girls.

Harold Mansfield became member of Histrionic club at Ohio Wesleyan and was to appear in presentation of the play, "Lightnin' ".

Party was given by Miss Dorothy Nolan, Lexington avenue, honoring Mrs. Clarence Miller, recent bride.

Gordon Jelliff, Barney Burns and Dick Tappan, 12-year-old Boy Scouts, combined their personal libraries to start a free circulating library for Scouts.

G. H. Gibson moved from 509 South Main street to Maple street.

Dave Boone Says:

IF THE honored dead from the first war and the second could see all the battling going on today, they would be pretty disturbed. Look at the United Nations, even fighting with traffic cops and small courts.

* * *

What U.N. needs most is a good public relations man to keep it from pulling boners. One of the top officials violates the speed laws and then claims diplomatic immunity. This means that a delegate working for world peace, brotherly love and the rights of small people thinks that if he breaks the law, causes trouble and even runs over a little fellow, he should be immune.

* * *

If anybody should take it like a sport, pay the fine and apologize, it's U.N. That's where Russia is smart. In the case of one of its chauffeurs, it accepted the summons, paid a $5 fine and forgot it.

Essential To Security.

Editor News-Journal:

Notwithstanding the vagaries of attitude toward our military organization, it is gratifying to observe the news value your newspaper has attached to the long-range research and development programs undertaken by the Quartermaster Corps looking to the future defense of this nation.

I refer particularly to such subjects as food, fabrics, clothing, shelter, mechanical equipment, chemistry, biochemistry, and the new science of protecting man against his environment.

Most of the public appreciate that to remain strong enough to protect its peace or to defend itself against attack this nation must have its men equipped superior to others. We must keep apace, if not in advance, of the demands of the changing world. The atomic age has invalidated virtually all equipment employed in World War II.

Everything developed by the Quartermaster Corps to maintain the soldier's health, vigor, well being, and efficiency has its counterpart in civilian life. The research and development work of the Quartermaster Corps in the interest of the soldier often immediately, but always ultimately, redounds to the benefit of civilians.

The interest of the press in this subject discloses a great appreciation of its import. Indeed the part your paper has played in making known the scope of these programs is of extreme value to our national security.

Famer's Diary

—By ALVIN A. BYERS

AN OVERDRAWN ACCOUNT

OUT among the rolling hills of an adjoining county I talked with a farmer who owned a hundred acres of hilly land. He led me to his hog lot where thirty thrifty shoats were busy at three metal feeders. "I raise all my feed right on the place," he said. "Soybeans, when the oil is taken out, corn, wheat and oats. I keep eight milk cows and a few steers, a flock of 300 hens.

"I am different from some folks. I am 80 acres. But 40 rests two years in clover while the other 40 is being cultivated. I pasture it until about the middle of June when it's cropped off, then let it grow for seed. My 30 hives of bees make the clover blossoms thrive, and mostly seed pays as well or better than a cultivated crop. The next year the clover is almost gone, but the bluegrass thick and the fiber roots go down beyond plow depth.

"Yes, my fields seem steep. But I never plow soil that will not keep a furrow slice turned properly against the hill. And on those strips of grass between, I make money.

"I used to plow all eighty acres when I began. But one day in the mail, I got notice that I'd overdrawn my bank account. We talked it over at home, and decided it was the same with our farm. It was being overdrawn upon . . . everything taken off, and too little put back.

"We looked up the two best farmers near our county and asked some questions. The information they gave was worth more than money. We started from then on to solve our problem.

"Slow work at first, I'm telling you. But the man who held the contract was patient when he saw we were afraid to work. We limed the poorest 20-acre field that was only growing poverty grass and planted goldenrod, when we began. We planted rye and tried clover. The stand wasn't good, but we plowed it down and tried that and then clover again. Then we let it rest two years.

"Results were good. After two more years we cultivated just 40 acres and rested the other 40 . . . putting in a bigger bank account into the soil each year. That first overdraft, we always say, was our real beginning."

OLD FACT.

Truman's Ex-Naval Aide Is Angling For Pension, Claiming Active Duty

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The president's former naval aide, Commodore Jake Vardaman of Missouri, is up to his old tricks. Though elevated to a 14-year-job at $15,000 a year on the Federal Reserve Board, highest fiscal agency in government, Vardaman has been put back on active navy duty and is trying to get disability retirement. This means that he may get a nice pension for life.

Vardaman has now gone out to Bethesda naval hospital for treatment and for appearance before a medical board, which apparently was why he was put back on active duty again. While on active duty he continues as a member of the Federal Reserve Board, though just how he manages this, no one seems to know.

If an officer on active duty is retired for disability, he then draws a pension equal to three-quarters of his base pay—for life. Furthermore he doesn't have to pay income taxes on this pension.

Thus, if Vardaman is retired for disability by the medical survey board, he will draw his $15,000 Federal Reserve Board salary for 14 years, and after that will get a pension of about $3,000.

When Vardaman first came to Washington for the hazardous duty of swimming in the White House pool and playing poker with other Missourians after sundown, he suddenly discovered that an officer attached to a yacht anchored in the Potomac could draw seagoing pay—or 10 per cent more. Immediately Vardaman rushed 'round to the navy and got himself attached to the presidential yacht, Williamsburg.

Actually he never slept on the yacht, except when cruising with the president over the weekend, but he got 10 per cent seagoing pay just the same.

Later Vardaman ordered several enlisted men to paint and repair his house in Georgetown—all at the taxpayers' expense. Their compensation was beer and sandwiches. This is the kind of economic expert now supposed to fix the nation's financial policy on the highest economic board in the USA.

Red Reception.

The Russian embassy trotted out Russia's second-best drawing card, Foreign Minister Molotov, for the annual reception celebrating the Soviet Revolution. Even his presence, however, failed to disguise the deterioration of Russian-American relations.

Significant was not who came, but who stayed away. For the first time since 1940, the bulk of the cabinet was absent. So were most members of congress, even those still in Washington.

The Russians knew the freeze was on. For the first time in five years, they roped off the third and fourth floors of the embassy, in previous years loaded down with choice viands, rare cuts of beef and free-flowing vodka. The crowd simply didn't show up. The acting secretary of state attended. So did the undersecretary of navy, so did fumbling Secretary of Treasury John Snyder, who loves a party no matter where it it. There were also a few brass hats, but the outpouring of top hats seen in former years failed to materialize.

Molotov's entire visit to Washington was a diplomatically correct, but cool performance. He was met at the station by Acting Secretary of State Acheson, visited the state department for ten minutes, and spent ten minutes at the White House—just long enough to say hello and pose for photographers.

One cabinet member who did show up at Molotov's party was Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, ex-ambassador to Moscow.

Note—John L. Lewis, once a feature guest at Soviet receptions, this time was conspicuous by his absence.

Under the Dome.

Speaker Sam Rayburn doesn't want the job of minority leader. Congressional colleagues are urging him to rally the Democratic minority in the house of representatives, but Sam shies away. . . . Southern congressmen are not enthusiastic over continuing the leadership of Massachusetts' John McCormack and they have the votes to put him in or out. McCormack made a mistake by writing an enthusiastic letter of endorsement to Kentucky's Congressman May of Erie Basin scandal fame . . . Col. Bob Allen, who tells one of the truly great stories of the war, will speak tonight at an international dinner in Quincy, Mass., on "What Does the Future Hold For America?" . . . One fixture in the Capitol regardless of political turnover will be Rev. James Shera Montgomery, the house chaplain. Appointed by the Republicans in 1921, he was continued by the Democrats . . . Popular Bill Donaldson, superintendent of the press gallery, also will probably remain on the job regardless of politics . . . New job dispenser on the house side of Capitol Hill will be Republican Speaker Joe Martin . . . One Republican to whom the political change will make slight difference is able Congressman Dick Welch of California. Welch usually runs on both the Democratic and Republican tickets, was called upon for advice by FDR more frequently than any other Republican . . . Congressman Clarence Hancock of New York, probable new chairman of the judiciary committee, is a descendant of John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Timely Editorial

For Want of Everything.

Long ago a battle was lost for want of a horseshoe nail. Today the battle for production of countless items is being delayed by similar trivalities.

A truck driver's nap stopped the production line in an automobile plant recently, adding more delay in the delivery of cars to hundreds of motorists. The sleepy driver pulled off the road for a forty winks, and the assembly line shut down for the day. Another plant, facing a similar crisis, kept operating when a transport plane flew in enough material to keep the line operating.

And it isn't only a few parts that hold up car deliveries. Almost every day a new shortage arises. One supplier for a Detroit auto plant couldn't get steel for arms supporting luggage compartment lids. That shortage whipped, the supplier discovered he was out of rivets. Then washers. Three costly delays for a piece of equipment about 12 inches long.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Can "Old Guard" Dictate GOP Policies?

WASHINGTON—Now that Republicans have won control of congress, traditionally the stepping stone to the White House two years later, the fight within the party between Old Guard conservatism and the more progressive elements immediately becomes accentuated.

The election victory brought it into the open.

Over all, the conservatives come out on top through the election, though with some reservations that may prove significant. Management of the party for the next two years is largely with congress.

There the record is made, there issues developed, there personalities have free play.

Conservatives will have the upper hand in congress, though not without constant challenge, both from within and without.

It was the sweeping nature of the election victory that helped to clinch the conservative hold on congress.

It so entrenched the party in the house that conservatives will be powerful enough, through long occupancy of key places, and numerous enough among rank and file to over-ride a more progressive minority.

They can dictate the nature of legislation brought before the house. On some issues, too, the Republican leadership will still draw support from among Southern Democrats, such as on labor legislation, economy, return of power to states in administration of social and welfare measures—even though in minority Democrats historically are more unified than in the majority.

Winning control of the senate also reinforces conservatism among Republicans in congress because it enhances the power and prestige of Senator Taft of Ohio, hitherto generally regarded as the most influential Republican in congress. Mr. Taft is effective because he is intelligent, loves hard work, informs himself on issues, and never lets upon his job of influencing fellow Republicans.

Now, after the fact, some people suddenly are waking up to an effect on foreign policy that may follow the election, as was pointed out here during the campaign. This is because of the increased power given to Senator Taft.

They are recalling now that the Ohio senator vigorously fought the British loan, extension of the reciprocal tariff program, the international bank and monetary fund, all a part of economic co-operation with Europe and just as important as political co-operation.

During the campaign Senator Vandenberg constantly was spotlighted as the symbol of Republican co-operation on foreign affairs. But Senator Taft, in the background during the election except for his criticism of the Nuernberg trials, was anywhere but in the background during senatorial fights over economic co-operation, nor will he be in the background henceforth. That is most important. Further measures of international economic co-operation will come before the new congress in January.

But, on both foreign and domestic issues, there is a progressive Republican leaven in the next congress which, if it finds leadership and makes itself felt, may have a restraining effect on mid-west Old Guard conservatism and latent isolationism which obviously will be powerful.

One of the interesting results of the election was to strengthen in congress a grass-roots sort of Republican liberalism nutured in New England.

Atomic Energy Control Is Stumbling Block.

NEW YORK—Against the background of an election campaign that dealt largely in name-calling and trivia the issues to be settled by the United Nations and the council of foreign ministers loom like distant, snow-covered mountain peaks. Here are the Himalayas, the ranges that seem beyond the reach of man in his present stage of development.

There is, of course, plenty of name-calling in these world assemblies. The delegates sometimes behave like ward bosses trying to subdue their henchmen. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in his speech to the general assembly hurled propaganda and abuse at his fellow delegates in generous volume.

But while they spend a great deal of time in irrelevant argument, the delegates meeting here cannot forget what the stakes are.

So much of the talk of boundaries, of trusteeships, of commissions, is window dressing. It is all so much camouflage unless there is agreement on the central issue which is the control of atomic energy.

A showdown on that issue is likely to come much sooner than anyone expects. And what happens to the whole apparatus of world co-operation after that showdown is a question in many minds. For it is hard to see how the American and Russian viewpoints ever can be reconciled.

At the heart of the American proposal is a system of inspection that would permit agents of an atomic development authority to go anywhere in any nation in the world. The Russians propose an international disarmament agreement that would include atomic weapons; nothing is said in the Russian proposal about international enforcement of such an agreement.

Those Americans who know Soviet Russia most intimately believe that the USSR can never accept international inspection. Since inspection is the root of the American plan, it is hard to see how the two parallel lines ever can meet on any practical or workable basis.

In the USSR the state is supreme in every department of life. Its supremacy is unquestioned. Even to question it is a form of treason. The mere presence inside Russia of inspectors with an authority greater than that of the state would in itself be demoralizing. As the Russian state is constituted today, it simply could not happen.

That is the unvarnished truth behind all the sparring over international control of atomic energy. On the other and, the American public and their representatives in congress would never be content to rest on a disarmament agreement that depended on the good faith of the nations signing the agreement.

Our suspicions are too deep-rooted for that. We remember that we disarmed in the '20s. We tend to forget, of course, the reason why we disarmed. While there was a surface of idealism, expressed in the Kellogg pact, the real reason for our disarmament was our basic isolation and our indifference to the rest of the world.

It would seem that the two parallel lines of policy never can meet except in war. But those who have the most knowledge do not accept this final verdict.

Even though the showdown on atomic energy seems to leave us at a dead end, there is only one course to follow. That is to carry on the patient but firm day-to-day exchange as is the policy of Secretary of State Byrnes.

The "get tough" policy is as foolish and as fatal as pure appeasement. Anger, denunciation, and recrimination are just what the Russians want. That would help them in their thus-far-failing struggle to win world opinion.

GREW DEFENDS INNOCENCE OF 3 TOJO AIDES

Former Ambassador Declares Defendants Were 'Wholly Opposed to War.

TOKYO—(INS)—Three of ex-premier Tojo's co-defendants were declared innocent of war conspiracy today in an affidavit prepared for the defense of Joseph C. Grew, former U. S. ambassador to Japan.

Named by Grew as "wholly opposed to war were ex-foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu and ex-premiers Kiichiro and Koki Hirota. They are among the 27 Japanese wartime leaders on trial before the international war crimes tribunal.

The affidavit was written in Washington, D. C., last Oct. 30 for Defense Attorney Franklin E. N. Warren, of Tucumcari, N. M.

Grew even attacked evidence against the trio, declaring:

"It is of course to be understood that evidence may indicate any of these three persons may from time to time have taken steps which might seem to be at variance with the foregoing opinion of their evidence."

Grew continued:

"If such evidence should emerge, it would be my judgment that such steps were taken by them under necessity of conserving their respective positions and authorities in order to be better able to carry through fundamentally the peace policies they supported."

Defense attorneys announced the affidavit will be introduced officially at the international war crimes trial when the defense begins its presentation.

The Grew affidavit was released to newsmen after Sir William Webb, presiding justice, refused to permit its introduction as evidence at this time.

Grew said in his affidavit:

"The letter to me of Dec. 30, 1941, published anonymously on pages 508 and 509 of my book, was written by Mr. Shigemitsu after Pearl Harbor and was smuggled in to me at the American embassy in Tokyo during our internment in spite of efforts of Japanese military police to prevent such missives reaching me.

"Mr. Shigemitsu thereby ran considerable risk of serious embarrassment in writing such a letter at that time to one who was already technically an enemy of his country."

Announcement of Grew's affidavit came as prosecution documents were introduced disclosing that Tojo had admitted responsibility for moving troops into Indo-China.

Extracts from an interrogation of Tojo last February revealed that the former premier said the responsibility "was mine as war minister" and boasted that "it is distasteful to me to try and avoid responsibility."

'Proud It's A Boy,' Says Dad, Aged 87

DES MOINES, Ia.—(U.P.)—Luys Carrizales, who became a father for the ninth time at the age of 87, said today he was "mighty proud it's a boy."

His 22-year-old wife, Mary, presented him yesterday with a husky son weighing nine pounds, 11½ ounces. Hospital attendants said the baby was "fine and healthy" and said the mother's condition was "fairly good."

Carrizales' eighth child, a girl, was born a year ago last month. He has seven other children by previous marriages. They range in age from 50 to 65.

Carrizales, a Cherokee Indian, passed an army physical examination three years ago but was rejected for military service because of his age. So he went to work on a war job at a Des Moines tire and rubber plant.

It was there that he met his present wife. After the marriage he went to work as a painter at the Woods Bros. Thresher company. He said he never missed a day's work because of illness.

INQUIRY OPENS ON IMMIGRATION LEAK

DETROIT—(INS)—American immigration officials were charged today with permitting foreign-born Communists to "leak" through the Detroit-Windsor port.

Representative John Lesinski (D., Mich.), chairman of the house immigration committee, announced that an inquiry of the alleged abuses will be opened in Detroit on Monday.

The Michigan legislator asserted that his committee holds information showing the state department by-passed legitimate quotas and allowed undesirables to enter the country.

600 Interned Jews Soon to Be Freed

LONDON —(INS)— The London Daily Express, quoting a Palesthe official, said 600 Jews will be freed soon from internment in Cyprus and permitted to enter the Holy Land.

The report added that Jewish sources in Jerusalem believe the rest of the 6,000 internees in Cyprus will be transferred to camps in Palestine and freed as their place in the new immigration quota is reached. It is understood, the report said, that Jewish agency leaders made the return of the deported Jews a condition of their full cooperation in Palestine talks scheduled to be held in London next month.

Says Contractor Made Adjustment

John Billingsley, Reed road, has protested to the News-Journal that certain facts were misrepresented in Sunday's story urging veterans to buy new homes with care. Billingsley said he was fully aware of the condition of his home when he bought it and that the contractor had made a financial adjustment before the deal was closed. Billingsley added that he had not informed the reporter of this fact because he thought the story was to be one on building conditions in general.

Billingsley also said that he did not seek aid from the Veterans' Information Center but only sought a priority to obtain wooden shingles to repair the house.

"I do not doubt that the story was accurate in other instances, but I am perfectly satisfied with the deal on my home," Billingsley said.

of the Ohio State Guard, mounted in their complement of vehicles, were led by Lt. Col. Glenn L. Bierly.

Among the marchers were members of the American Legion, both McVey post and the Colored Post 72; Amvets, AVC, DAV, and 37th Division association.

In a formation close behind the massed colors were veterans of the women's military services.

Bringing up the rear was the ladder truck of the Mansfield fire department manned by firemen who are war vets.

During the parade city firemen and Veterans Sam Williamson and Leo Jones sent up a display of aerial fireworks from the roof of the Leland. Fireworks and the flares held by Boy Scouts were furnished by the Joint Veterans' committee.

Following the parade many of the marchers and the spectators gathered at the Legion home and the Armory to enjoy open house and dancing. Open house was also held all day at the American Veterans' Committee clubrooms.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"IT'S such a fine day," said the broker to his assistant, "that I think I'll go down to the club and shoot a round of golf."

"I wish I was rich," the assistant said a little later to his secretary. "I wouldn't mind getting out into this sunshine once in a while myself."

"Well, don't be a sap," the secretary told him. "How will old Poopface know if you call for your wife and sneak off to the beach?"

The assistant thought this was an excellent suggestion. At his home, however, he had considerable difficulty getting the front door open; when he did force his way in, there was the boss with the assistant's wife on his lap. The assistant gasped, stole silently out of the house, and paddled back to the office as fast as his little feet would carry him.

"What happened?" said the secretary. "Didn't you go to the beach?"

"What happened?" echoed the assistant. "You and your fancy ideas! On account of you I darn near got fired."

TEACHERS ENDOW STUDY IN CLASSICS

Despite low salaries, Ohio's classical teachers who make up the Ohio State Classical association, have compiled a $6,000 endowment fund to be used in scholarships to the American Academy at Rome, Miss Ruth Dunham, Latin instructor at Senior high school, announced today.

Miss Dunham, chairman of the county representatives of the association, said that a scholarship of $250 will be given annually for the next five years to a secondary school Latin or Greek teacher. This scholarship, she added, will be matched by the academy for the summer course. All teachers chosen will be from junior or senior high schools or private schools in the state.

Although a division of the Ohio State Educational association, the Classical association is financially independent of the parent organization. Miss Dunham said that the classical group has compiled the fund through solicitation of members, who finance all meetings and projects.

Rev. M. J. Madden Speaks On Peace Problems to DAR

AS LONG as the era of a few super-states exists there can be no true peace," said Rev. Matthew J. Madden, pastor of the First Congregational church, when he addressed members of the Mary Washington chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday afternoon at the Women's Club.

"There must be world organization, universal in its application with all nations participating, and with moral principles as the foundation," Rev. Madden stated in his Armistice day talk on "The Problems of Peace and Solutions of Them."

Mrs. Jay Palmer, regent, conducted the meeting and introduced the two guests, Mrs. Madden and Mrs. Ernest Hesser of Crestline.

Hostesses for the dessert luncheon were Mrs. Fred Bristor, Mrs. C. G. Hillier, Mrs. A. R. Carter and Mrs. George Anson. Gold and red chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece of the luncheon tables.

Members brought gifts which will be presented to Crossnore school, Crossnore, N. C., one of the 14 schools approved and aided by DAR chapters.

The next meeting Dec. 9 will be at the Women's Club.

Louis Bromfield Speaks on Russia At Meeting of the Woodland PTA

"To understand the 'Iron Curtain' policy now being followed by Russia, we must appreciate that only recently has Russia jumped from a medieval economy and general culture to modern," stated Louis Bromfield, in his discussion of his impressions of Russia at the meeting of the Woodland school PTA last night. The meeting was held at the Woodland school.

"The Russians have tried to move from the old farm economy to the 'Henry Ford-Henry Kaiser' era without going through the Thomas Jefferson stage which is the basis of true democracy," he said, "adding that the iron curtain has been erected to conceal the fact that as yet Russia has not reached a stage of civilization attained by the rest of the larger powers.

"It is difficult to have intelligent discussion with the Russians due to the vast difference in interpretations of common words," he stated, giving as an example the Russian interpretation of democracy in voting the one party ticket and the true democratic concept of free thinking and choice in election.

Noting that the Russian leaders, Stalin and Molotov, are provincially minded men, he pointed out that other than the trip to Teheran, Stalin has not traveled outside of his own country and that neither he or Molotov have had the intimate and general acquaintance with world diplomats and countries.

"In order for the UN to succeed," Bromfield said, there must be no more diplomatic double talk. Frank and honest discussion of world problems will never lead to war."

The short business meeting preceding the talk was conducted by Fred Hout, PTA president, and Oliver Henkel, program chairman introduced Mr. Bromfield. Attending were 110 members and guests.

Stronger, Sturdier Teeth for 'Growing-Ups' with

Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk

For sound, healthy teeth, children must have Vitamin D. In every quart of Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk they get 400 units of vitamin D, the amount nutrition experts say all babies and growing children need daily. Vitamin D also helps build strong bones and develops good muscles, and helps prevent rickets.

Depend on Isaly's—the milk that provides a full supply of vitamin D . . . PLUS the nourishment and delicious flavor of cream in every drop, the result of homogenization. Ask your neighborhood Isaly milkman for Homogenized Vitamin D Milk—or get it at your grocery—or telephone 4217-6.

IMPORTANT!

Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk is approved by the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association—an approval important to the health of your family, an approval that means consistently high quality and dependability in every quart of Isaly's.
